NEW PROSPECTUS!

Ladies' Companion!

A STANDARD NATIONAL MAGAZINE Published Monthly in the City of New York, by

WILLIAM W. SNOWDEN. Numerous Engravings in each Number. The exacted reputation of this popular magazine has been so long and so widely established that it may perhaps be deemed by some supercrogatory or the part of the proprietor to offer a direct exposi-tion of its merits and its claims. The Ladies Companion needs no landatory pulls to force it into precarious existence: it has, for a number o cears, spoken for itself, and in a voice which ha found a most satisfactory response in the literary taste of the age. Conforming, however to cus-tom which seems to demand a few words occaionally from the proprietor to his patrons and the public, we will simply and succincily enumerate the chief titles which this standard national maga zine has to the enormous patronage which it has for so many years enjoyed, and to that regular and uninterrupted advance in the favor of the critical, the literary and the refined, which has ever, in a the mechanical execution, paper, typography, etc., it is needless to dwell. It has ever been the object of the proprietor to place his magazine, even in these points, beyond competition; but in doing so he has had no disposition to sacrifice the more important and substantial qualities which ought to distinguish a national and standard periodical. It is its pre-eminence in the literary department upon which is based the principle claims of the Ladies' Companion. To its pages the proprietor boldly refers for proof of the assertion that by

It will be an object of the proprietor to preserve the reputation, which this department has acquired for sound and unprejudiced decisions.

THE EMBELLISHMENTS. It may be safely asserted that in this interesting and striking feature, the Ladies Companion is yet It is not merely in the beauty and perfection of the engravings that it excels, but also in the character of the subjects which are invariaselected with the greatest care and reflection. and with reference to their utility and artistical merit, not to the facility and consequent cheap ness with which they yield themselves to the burn of the engraver. Every number is ornamented with steel plates, executed by the first artists, in the most finished manner, expressly for the work! Scriptural engravings are also occasionally published. The reader therefore, for the low price at which the "Companion" is afforded, in addition to its admirable literary articles, obtains, a port folio ton's Corner. All persons wishing bargains are
